Delhi's spa and salon Bliss by Ravissant in New Friends Colony offers sole to soul relaxation and more. Spread over 4,800 sq ft, you can indulge in everything from teas and macaroons to a spa session, and even gaming. Designed in varying tones of white, cream and beige, the space provides luxury and privacy while doing its bit for Mother Nature. In fact, it has been touted as the country's first 'organic green salon and spa'. As you enter, there's L'Opera, a French patisserie with yummy savory treats. Next to this is the section where men can get their hair cut and have a go at the PlayStation while they wait. The spa stations have been cleverly concealed behind the reception area; while the main space is to the left of the entryway. Here, a cute retail boutique sells beauty and spa products along with a premium range of silver-plated decoratives.

Ravissant is a brand that's all about luxe living and the same follows through for Bliss. The in-house design team worked tirelessly to offer comfort, extravagance and privacy in the same space. Hence, each section, is separate and has doors that can be closed on request. Italian marble (used on the floor and walls) dominates the salon. They even have custom-made wallpapers in gold and grey for specific sections. And all fabric on the French furniture and wood used in this project are untreated and therefore green. Also, the designers have ensured that the outlet has water harvesting technology.

My favourite part is the relaxing massage chairs at the shampoo station. After all, extravagance is the ultimate bliss. ☺
